

FAQs about Joining Stampin' Up!

1. What are the minimum sales requirements?

You only need to submit $300 in sales per quarter. That is less than an average Stampin' Up!® workshop! Also, you can submit your sales in any increment you wish and still receive your 20 percent discount and commission.

2. What if I want to do this as a hobby and not necessarily a business?

Stampin' Up! supports all demonstrators, no matter their goals or the level at which they choose to run their business. If you choose not to hold workshops, you can simply place your own orders and/or collect orders from family and friends to help you reach the $300 quarterly sales minimum (including Paper Pumpkin).

3. Can I be my own hostess?

Yes, you can be your own hostess anytime you want. Invite your family and friends into your home and have a workshop. You will be the hostess, receiving the hostess benefits, as well as the demonstrator, receiving your instant income and commission.

4. How much does it cost to get started as a demonstrator?

The Starter Kit is only $99, and is fully customizable. You choose up to $125 worth of any current Stampin' Up! products, and you will also receive a business supplies pack containing materials you need to run your business (valued at $65). Plus - free shipping (for another 10% savings)!

5. How can I make money as a demonstrator?

You can earn money in three ways: instant income (20% of each order, including your own), plus monthly volume rebates (additional 5–18 percent of total sales, including your own), and monthly team override commissions (3–6.5 percent of your teams sales).

6. Do I have to recruit other demonstrators?

No. However, if you were to recruit demonstrators, you would be paid override commissions on your team's sales, but this is a perk, not a requirement.

7. Where will I get project ideas for my workshops? What kind of training can I expect?

Stampin' Up! provides dozens of training resources filled with project ideas and tips to help you run every aspect of your business, including a publication called Stampin' Success, Demonstrator Support agents, a demonstrator-only website filled with thousands of samples, annual and seasonal catalogs, a Demonstrator Manual, and more!

8. Is Stampin' Up! a well-known, respected company?

Since 1988, Stampin' Up! has been selling rubber stamps and paper-crafting supplies. In that time, not only have we won industry awards and accolades, but also the loyalty and admiration of demonstrators and customers alike. And that is a trend that we work hard to maintain. You can rest assured that the reputation of Stampin' Up! will only continue to improve!

9. What if I decide that I don't like it once I've started? Will I be penalized if I quit?

You may choose to stop at anytime, and you will not be penalized. You simply stop placing orders. However, there are many benefits to remaining an active demonstrator.
